

View homes via TV clips

ROBERT Ellis TV is coming and it is looking for stars of the show.

The estate agent has joined forces with presenter Shaun Esden and Aztec360 to create videos for selected properties that they have for sale or rent.

To be featured on Robert Ellis's website and Youtube, the clips have a presenter introducing viewers to the property and taking them on a guided tour.

Mark Philpott, of Robert Ellis, said: "There is nobody else in the country offering the latest version of presenter-led clips for individual homes.

"We have joined forces with Aztec360 and we can offer to do a bespoke-TV-style clip of a property from as little as £99.

"It is very exciting and we have launched it with several properties already having a TV clip produced which can be seen on all the websites we advertise our properties on, as well as on Youtube.

"The TV clips can be produced and put online within a matter of days and we believe this is a service which is offered by no other estate agents in the country, let alone in the West Nottingham area."

Presenter Shaun Esden said: "We have been wanting to do this for some time.

"Robert Ellis seemed the perfect partner to take this forward, with their modern outlook yet a heritage going back some 40 years."
